Children tee off their Breakfast Club with Saltman trio to celebrate further cash injection from Edinburgh Airport

GOLFING brothers Elliot, Lloyd and Zack Saltman swapped their clubs for cereal bowls today when they tucked into breakfast with youngsters at Ratho Primary School.

The sporting siblings were guests of honour at the AEGON Breakfast Club where the children were celebrating receiving further funding from local sponsors Edinburgh Airport.

The AEGON Breakfast Club at Ratho Primary School began in April this year and since then the club really has taken off and the children are continuing to enjoy all the benefits from a healthy start to their day.

Edinburgh Airport, now the fastest growing airport in the UK, was the fifth business to sign up to sponsor an AEGON Breakfast Club, and the second sponsor to be announced in 2009.

The Saltman brothers were delighted to help join the children in celebrating their extended funding from Edinburgh Airport which should see the AEGON Breakfast Club operate for an additional year.

The Saltman brothers are sponsored by AEGON and are always keen to encourage children to adopt healthy lifestyles and the Breakfast Club is no exception.

Lloyd Saltman said:

“The AEGON Breakfast Club is a great initiative and it’s clear how much the children enjoy it. This helps the children establish a great attitude towards healthy eating. It would be great if other companies could get involved and help more children benefit from this unique project.”

Kevin Lang, Head of Communications at Edinburgh Airport said:

“The AEGON Breakfast Club is a great initiative which provides kids with a good breakfast to start their day, giving them a great source of energy for physical and mental well being. Edinburgh Airport is proud to offer our continued support with the provision of these breakfasts which forms an important part of our work with the community around the airport."

Liz Walshe, Head Teacher, Ratho Primary School said:

"We are delighted that Edinburgh Airport has offered to fund our breakfast club for another year. Their generosity really makes a difference to the children and families of Ratho."

The AEGON Breakfast Club is a unique healthy eating initiative which helps provide children with a more structured and nutritious start to their day.
